Antioch Business Houses Had Good Trade Over July 4 With Large Crowd Monday

Independence Day falling on Tuesday this year brought many people to the Antioch area for a four-day period.

Because many industries were closed Monday, the vacationers came Saturday and remained until Tuesday afternoon at local resorts.

Antioch business houses, for the most part closed on Tuesday, did a big business while they were open Monday. They said it was the biggest day's business in recent years.

While there were several bad accidents on Saturday and Sunday, none was reported on Monday and Tuesday.

On main traveled highways such as Rte. 41, state police on Tuesday were stationed at intervals slowing traffic to a safe speed.

Local police said that there wasn't as much traffic Tuesday as there usually is on July 4.

Local Beauty Operator Stabbed to Death at Venetian Village Home

Agnes C. Lippert, 50 Killed By Husband, a Mental Patient

Mrs. Agnes C. Lippert, local beauty operator, was stabbed to death by her husband, Arthur Lippert, 50, at their home in Venetian village Tuesday night.

On an authorized three-day leave from Elgin State hospital for the Insane, Lippert brutally killed his wife because he thought her responsible for his being sentenced to the asylum.

The slaying occurred an hour before he was due to return to the hospital at 7 p. m.

Using a bread knife Lippert stabbed Mrs. Lippert at least eight times in the lung, neck, head, shoulder and breast.

"She had me in the asylum five months. I'd do it again," he said after making his confession to sheriff's deputies.

The deputies, Robert May and Elmer Rich found Mrs. Lippert lying dead in the yard where she fell after running from the house. They said that the living room was spattered with blood indicating a fierce struggle. The knife was found inside a bread box in the kitchen where Lippert placed it.

He told the officers his wife had not given him a satisfactory answer when he asked her why she had committed him to the asylum. He

Goelz and Palmer Will Entertain at Round Lake Park Stadium Friday

Billy Goelz, holder of the junior heavyweight title-belt as recognized by the Illinois Wrestlers Promoters Association, will clash with Walter Palmer in the sixty minute main event of Fred Kohler's mat show Friday night in the Lake County Stadium in Round Lake Park. The match is to a two out of three fall verdict.

Goelz will be giving away weight in this match, but the blonde Fox Lake grappler believes his speed and cleverness will offset the difference in poundage. Billy is one of the fastest moving wrestlers in the game and because of the fact that he is always in top condition it is an assured fact that he can move with breakneck speed for an entire sixty minutes of a match if necessary.

Palmer has sharpened up his spinning leg hold and this grip is listed as one of the most dangerous action holds of the game. Fans can be certain that Billy will try to perfect a defense for the spinning leg hold. The Fox Lake grappler is secretly working on a defense that may nullify the Palmer grip.

Palmer is still hot after the heavy weight title. The Des Plaines grappler would like a match with Lou Thesz, heavyweight titleholder. He has repeatedly asked Promoter Fred Kohler to sign Thesz to face him.

Palmer's prestige as well as his position in the ratings is at stake in Friday's bout. A loss to Goelz would endanger his standing and also his prestige. For that reason the Goelz-Palmer clash is a "natural".

In a Tag bout on the show the famed Zaharias Brothers, Babe and Chris are to wrestle Juan Hernandez and Jim McMillen, two very formidable wrestlers. Zaharias duo and rated one of the top tag teams of the nation. McMillen, who is a great star has a speedy and shrewd partner in the Mexican. The teams are evenly matched.

In the opening battle Ned Taylor, of Ohio and Joe Gordon of Chicago will start the show in an exciting manner.

Taxes That Hurt Employment

A recent report by an economic institution said that proponents of repeal of the war-time excise taxes were greatly exaggerating the situation. This has been strongly challenged by the head of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

He observed, "An increase of 20 per cent in the price of merchandise is enough in itself to stop women buying, but when they know that 20 per cent is a tax set up by an extravagant government from which the average purchaser is likely to get nothing she regards as important, it would take 20 institutes and many more scientific investigators to prove that sales are not affected." He then took the report on Federal Tax Collections for Massachusetts, the only pertinent figures available, covering excise tax collections on furs, jewelry, luggage and toiletries. These indicated that, for a four-months period, sales in that state of these items were down some $4,000,000.

The people who should know the most about the excise tax problem are the manufacturers who produce the goods, the retailers who sell them and the labor unions whose members work at making them. These groups are virtually unanimous in saying that the taxes have hit sales hard, and prevented industrial growth and employment.

From the moral point of view, continuation of these taxes is indefensible. They were strictly a war emergency measure. Yet years have gone by since hostilities ended and they are still on the books—and still hurting the consumer, the manufacturer, the retailer and the worker.

Public Opinion Decides

The Atlanta Constitution commenting on recent labor troubles in the railroads said, "The American people do not believe that in the highly mechanized Diesel cabs there is the slightest need for an extra do-nothing fireman . . . The fact-finding boards, usually partisan to the Brotherhoods, twice refused the demand . . .

"We do not believe ambitious labor leaders, anxious to build up their personal power within their unions, are yet strong enough to win a strike which does not have at least some public opinion behind it."

This is undoubtedly the reason why the firemen's union withdrew its demand and brought the railroad strike to an end—it was clear to all that public opinion was solidly against that make-work scheme. And yet the issue may come up again, and so its importance has not diminished.

Every real authority has said that there is no reason for enlarging Diesel engine crews. The decision of the two Presidential fact-finding boards were based on an exhaustive study of all available facts and opinions. And the public interest in the issue is very high—for, when any industry is saddled with unnecessary costs, it is the public which does the paying.

If the rail unions are wise, they will not again make demands which are so clearly opposed to the public interest and the welfare of the industry which provides good jobs for their members.

Toward A Sound Power Policy

A group of 100 electric companies has made a 20-page recommendation to the Chairman of the President's Water Resources Policy Committee concerning a new long-range policy for joint government and private development of our water resources.

This policy breaks down into four essential points: First, to assure adequate power at all times for the nation's growing economy; second, to provide repayment of the government's investment through sale of power at regulated rates to municipalities, REA's and investor-owned utilities for transmission and distribution to the public; third, to make Federal hydro power available to all citizens without discrimination; fourth, to strengthen, rather than weaken, the ability of private power companies to render service.

Commenting on this, a utility spokesman* said, "We want people to know—as many do not know—that the electric companies in this country have always led and will continue to lead the world in expanding power facilities in the interest of national defense and a prosperous people. What we oppose is the lost motion and lost resources involved when the government, using scarce taxpayers' dollars, does work that the electric companies—their investors and their workers—stand ready, willing, and able to do."

It is impossible to see how any fair-minded person can oppose this position—although, of course, the socialistically inclined zealots in and out of the government will fight it with denunciations, misrepresentations and every other tool at their command. The electric industry asks only the right to continue to serve us as economically and as efficiently as possible.

* P. L. Smith, President, National Association of Electric Companies.

Card of Thanks
I wish to thank the American Legion Auxiliary Post No. 748, Lakeside Rebekah Lodge No. 83, Millburn Ladies Aid, my wonderful neighbors, relatives and friends for the beautiful flowers, gifts, cards which I received while in Victory Memorial hospital.

Liberty Bell
Thomas Lister of Whitechapel 193 years ago cast the original Liberty Bell, which reached Philadelphia by sailing ship in August, 1752. It cracked with the first stroke of its clapper after being hung in the State House (Independence Hall) tower, and two Philadelphia foundrymen, Pass and Stow, achieved immortality by recasting it.

Gold Alloys
Pure gold does not tarnish but is easily scratched and is very soft. It is usually hardened with 10 per cent copper for coinage, with various amounts of copper and silver for yellow and greenish jewelry alloys, or with nickel plus zinc and copper for jewelry white golds.

Rose Care
If you want large roses, remember that removing some of the buds will produce larger flowers but fewer of them. To get bigger blooms, remove any side buds on a cane to channel additional strength in the terminal buds.

First Forestry School
The first school of forestry in the United States, first headed by Gifford Pinchot, was formed on what is now the Vanderbilt estate, just outside of Asheville, N. C.

Wobbly Pans
Tippy pots and pans that will not stand ready on the stove are likely to cause serious burns, or even fires.

Snake Charmer
A snake charmer could play his music instrument like an angel, but he would not get a rise out of the snake if he did not have rhythm. Snakes have no external ears, and cannot hear sound waves in the air; they react only to the charmer's "swing and sway."

Burlington Takes Sunday Game from V.F.W., 6-2

Antioch's two game win streak came to an abrupt halt Sunday as Burlington came away with a 6-2 decision. By virtue of its victory Burlington remained in second place and within easy striking distance of the league leaders. The defeat left Antioch in a three way tie for third place.

Ray Bushing went to the hill seeking his fourth consecutive league triumph but it was not his day. He was hampered by poor support as was Jim Seri, Burlington Ace. Seri scattered nine hits effectively and would have had a shut out with better support. Each team committed four fielding errors and was guilty of other bits of sloppy baseball.

The only bright light of the day was the brilliant relief pitching of Eddie Olsen. He pitched the last four innings, allowing only two hits one of which was of the scratchiest variety. He struck out the side in the ninth and had eight strike outs in all.

Burlington picked in three unearned runs in the first two innings which would have been sufficient for the victory. In the first inning C. Wagner singled. Klug hit a fly to short left center which dropped between Crandall and D. Scott when neither called for the catch. Dexter then hit a slow roller to short which went through Scott's legs. C. Wagner scoring to make the score 1-0. A hit by Barry sandwiched between errors by Schneider and Bushing gave Burlington two more unearned runs in the second inning.

In the third Klug led off with a blow to left field which he stretched to a triple aided by a sloppy relay. He came home on a balk by Bushing. They garnered their last two runs in the fifth on a single by Klug a triple by Dexter and a single by Krahn.

Antioch matched Burlington's first inning run on singles by Palenski and Schneider and an error by Huncheliff on Crandall's fly to right center. They rallied briefly for a run in the ninth as Olsen and Palenski singled and Bohnsack booted two grounders but Seri snuffed out the rally by making Crandall pop out.

Next Sunday Antioch will travel to Silver Lake. Earlier in the season Silver Lake was the victor but the V. F. W. will be out to prove that that was an accident. The teams will also be bidding to hold their third place spot in the league standings since they have identical records.

Uncle Sam Says

My hat is off to the volunteer U. S. Savings Bonds County Chairmen and others who are still giving patriotic service to their country. Year in and year out these volunteers are carrying the message of financial independence through U. S. Savings Bonds to every county in the nation. For 1950 their slogan is: "Save For Your Independence." They'll show you how millions of Americans are securing THEIR future by purchasing U. S. Savings Bonds.

Hanging Blankets
Hang blankets tent-fashion over not one but two clothes lines, spaced a foot or more apart. This speeds up the drying time, as both sides of blanket are exposed to circulating air. When partially dried, shake blanket and reverse on the line.

Malaria

No Longer Health Hazard

WASHINGTON—If the pioneer of a century ago could return to the United States for a day, probably not even our automobiles and airplanes would amaze him more than a simple announcement recently made by Dr. Justin M. Andrews, United States public health service. The announcement was: "Malaria will probably be eliminated as a major public health hazard in the United States by 1952."

To the frontiersman, even in northern states, his life was often built around the "shakes." Preachers scheduled their services and judges set hours for court sessions with an eye to avoiding the time of their recurrent attacks of "ager."

More than one ghost town dotted the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Ohio and other rivers, its surviving inhabitants having fled after as high as 80 per cent of the population fell to malaria.

The disease gradually receded as the effectiveness of quinine as a specific became widely known in the 1840's. However, recent reports place the number of cases in the United States at between 1,000,000 and 6,000,000 yearly with 1500 deaths. Malaria has been making a stubborn retreat as land has been drained, farmers have moved to the city, and the level of education has climbed so that use of quinine has become more widespread. With these conditions offering hope for success, the U. S. public health service organized a five-year campaign against the disease in 1947—the campaign which led Dr. Andrews to make his hopeful prediction.

New York Beggar Leaves Over $11,000 In Bank Accounts

NEW YORK—Beggars are not always poor, but often wealthy men who conduct begging like a business with complete books and expense accounts, it was revealed recently with the death of Robert T. Ingles.

When Ingles died he left $11,000 in one check and two savings accounts. And he left a complete set of books that told what expenses he incurred in his planned route that included 100 cities in the country. He also entered the amounts he made in each city.

Ingles, also known as Joseph E. Addeison, lost one leg in a West coast accident. It was after the accident that he became a professional beggar.

He was a strange man. At his rooming house in New York, where he lived between trips, he was known as a stingy man. But in the Bowery where he ate every night in the same restaurant and at the same table, he spent freely. Always dignified, even when in his working clothes, he dressed for dinner in a blue suit, white shirt and tie.

He insisted that neatness and politeness was the secret of his success. That he was successful is indicated by his bank account and a report that he did not feel he had had a good week unless he could bank at least $50.

Ingles was not the kind of beggar that asked for handouts. Although none of his friends ever saw him in action, they report that he probably stood silently at a street corner, subway platform or race track, holding his pencils in a cigar box, looking neat, polite, sober and appealingly helpless.

When he was working he would plan his trip like any business man. He would select the towns he wanted to visit and keep strict account of his "profits." He frequently sent $100 deposits to his New York banks, sometimes only a few days apart when he was traveling.

Man Who Found Watch Held On Grand Larceny Charge

LOUISVILLE—Ruben Noel, 47-year-old painter, was held to the grand jury on a grand larceny charge—and all because he found a watch.

He found it, but did not report it to police or advertise in newspapers. Under Kentucky law that constitutes grand larceny.

According to Noel his troubles began when he found a woman's watch on the floor of a bus. He put it in his pocket and kept it about four days, watching the newspapers to see if anyone had lost a watch of that description.

Meanwhile, the owner, Lucille Groer, reported the loss to police. At the end of four days Noel pawned the watch for $15. Police, in routine checks of pawn shops, recognized it as one reported lost. Noel was arrested for grand larceny.

The law provides that anyone finding an article must make an effort to locate the owner. It was all very confusing to Noel who kept repeating, "I didn't steal anything."

Noel's attorney was indignant. "He didn't have it broadest on the radio, either," he said sarcastically.

ILLUSIONS

Invents Five Tricks Yearly

HOLLYWOOD — Howard Thurston, believed by many one of the greatest magicians that ever lived, has been dead for 12 years.

Now, Harry A. Jansen, known professionally as Dante, has stepped into the role as the country's leading magician. If not the leading magician, certainly the most inventive.

Dante, who is white-haired and wears a goatee, was Thurston's constructionist (carpenter) for the magicians' sawing stunt. When Thurston died, Dante acquired all his tricks and was named his successor.

His greatest trick, illusion as it is called in the trade, is sawing a woman in half. Invented in 1920, he has improved it to such perfection that it seems uncanny.

"Now I can move the two halves around the stage. The head, in one half of the box, sings. The toes, on the other side of the stage, wiggle," he said.

Invents Illusion

He explained he has been making magic for 50 years and has originated 25 major illusions and 40 lesser ones. This, he claims, surpasses the invention of all other leading magicians put together.

Every March Dante turns out four or five new illusions. That's the extent of his inventing for a year. The remaining time is spent on tour with "Dante's Cockeyed Inferno," consisting of a boxcar load of paraphernalia and a troop of 30 performers.

Among Dante's illusions is the barbershop travesty, where he winds up shaving himself. He is also inventor of the getaway, in which a pretty girl steps on a scale, drops in her penny, and vanishes.

"It takes more than just carpentering to create a first-class illusion," he says. "It takes imagination, then the skill to carry the whole plan out. The apparatus has to be correctly made, light, portable, easily set up and knocked down. Too many magicians find themselves lugging around boxcar loads of equipment."

The magician knew Houdini, along with other famous tricksters. He says Houdini knew very little. His specialty was escaping from a locked trunk.

Makes Tricks Complicated

Dante reports it may take years to perfect an illusion. His "million-dollar illusion" of sawing a woman in half was comparatively simple when first invented. Now, with years of work and thought, it has become a complicated trick. Audiences are fascinated and often horrified as the two halves of the woman are moved about the stage, one half singing and the other wiggling its toes.

Copyright of illusions is difficult, Dante says. "About all we can do is make them so complicated they can't be duplicated. But imposters are always trying."

Thurston, even after death, wanted to carry on in the trade. He made a pact with a friend, Claude Noble, that on the anniversary of his death Noble would try to contact his spirit.

Every year for 12 years, Noble has visited Thurston's tomb and called to his spirit. There has been no manifestation.

Electricity In Brain Cause Of Many Headaches, Report

DETROIT — The American psychiatric association has a new explanation for headaches and dizzy spells.

The association reports it may be caused by buzzing of electricity in your brain. The association also believes it may be a cause of restlessness.

The buzzing is rapid pulses of electrical energy, 30 to 40 a second. This is half to more than half as fast as the pulsations of alternating current in your house electric lights. It occurs in both the central and forward parts of your brain.

The veteran's administration hospital at Hines, Ill., and the University of Illinois college of medicine gave an exhibition of the discovery to the association.

Eighty-five per cent of persons with these fast waves suffered from headaches, 70 per cent were restless and 55 per cent complained of dizziness. Also, 75 per cent said they had spells of some sort and many of them had suffered personality upsets.

The discovery was made possible by pasting little electrodes on the skin or scalp, with fine wires attached to carry away the current. The experiment was made during drowsiness.

The report said that sleep takes the blanket off the brain and lets the waves out better than during wakefulness.

The sleep studies showed that sometimes one side of the brain beats faster electrically than the other. This happens in hemiplegia a common trouble among wounded G.I.s. In hemiplegia part of the body is paralyzed, but only on one side. This paralysis comes from the brain.

New Volcano

If you have ever felt as if you were sitting on top of a volcano, you can understand the plight of the Mexican farmer who in February, 1943, was placidly working in his cornfield on the site of what is now the volcano Paricutin. The initial eruption occurred only a few feet from the astonished peon, and resulted in a volcano mountain of over 1,000 feet within ten months.

State Tree of Maryland

Maryland's choice of the white oak as the official state tree is credited to the majestic Wye Oak at Wye Mills, Talbot county, on the state's "eastern shore." One of the nation's largest, the far-spreading Wye Oak is 95 feet high and about four centuries old.

Honeydew

Honeydew is the sweet viscid excretion of plant-sucking insects, such as aphids and scale insects. That portion of the plant juice or sap which these insects cannot utilize is ejected in the form of a sweet liquid. It has a high sugar content and, therefore, is attractive to bees when sources of nectar are not available.

Drink Milk

There is no age limit on the necessity to drink milk. Older people need a pint of milk each day—a cup is not sufficient.

First of the Fine Cars in Value

The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

WE think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power, its room, its styling, even in its ride.

There is the all-important point about what a car does to you—and that's where ROADMASTER really shines.

For you can't slip into this bonny beauty's broad seats without feeling like somebody pretty special.

When you take its neat wheel in your hand—when you cut loose, with a toe-touch, the rich baritone of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant—when you feel the smooth surge of its Dynaflo-cushioned take-off—

Man, then you know you've got a real automobile!

And don't overlook this:

That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

Those four Ventiports, too, cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other car:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine. Dynaflo Drive standard. A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT

This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

DOMESDAY BOOK

First Census Taken 1086

LONDON—The 1950 edition of Domesday Book, the English version of a census, is now being planned, it was announced recently. The first census was ordered by William the Conqueror in 1086.

Americans, who have been upset by the number of questions asked by tabulators this year, were no more upset than the Englishman of William's day when he announced his decision to have the survey made.

"So very straitly did he cause the survey to be made that there was not a rod of ground, nor—it is shameful to say what he thought no shame to do—was there an ox or a cow or a pig that passed by that was not set down in the accounts," an anonymous report said.

Census for Tax Purpose
William was not primarily interested in the population. He was more interested in taxes. The levy of two shillings per "hide" of land had not yielded the expected revenue. Besides that, he had no way of checking up on defaulters. He had no adequate records even of his own holdings. The time had come, he decided, for a reckoning.

Besides counting noses, the local "census takers" were called upon to make three estimates of the value of the land in yearly revenue—at the time of the census, at the time it was acquired by the current owner, and at the death of Saxon King Edward in 1066.

All this information was duly assembled, classified and copied by clerks in two great volumes which were given the name of Domesday Book. As the inventory covered all but four counties, those still held by Saxons, the book was a lush guide to the King in refilling the royal treasury.

Besides the tax problem, the book also provided a list of all landowners and tenants and the Christian names of subtenants, peasants and slaves.

In fact, the book was a tax roll, land register, military register, census of population and topographical dictionary.

The American census this year is designed along many of the same lines. Government officials report that the complete United States census will take the guess out of many phases of life in this country.

Unlike the original Domesday Book, tax levies will not be made from the census. Nor the amount of personal income, one of the questions asked by census takers this year, be revealed to anyone.

Information Small

These figures when accumulated, will provide accurate data on the standard of American life today. The centers of population, industry and potential wealth will also be clearly outlined after the census is tabulated and analyzed, census takers report.

William the Conqueror planned to use his census as sort of a fifth column within the country. For instance, the Norman lords with whom he shared his loot after conquering England, had built up feudal centers of considerable strength. William had no definite knowledge of their resources either in property or men. He suspected some of them of trying to create little independent kingdoms within the realm to challenge his power. His census provided this valuable information.

Like the Domesday Book, the American census will be a valuable source of information for future historians.

Capitalism Most Undersold System, Stassen Reports

WASHINGTON — Capitalism is the most undersold economic system in all history and socialism and communism are the most oversold, Harold E. Stassen recently told a group of business men.

Correcting the situation is a job for industry, he added. It could mean the end of the cold war and possibly prevent the much talked about third world war.

"It is my view that the most important single informational job that needs to be done in America is to develop a better understanding by American workmen of the modern capitalistic economic system of which they are a part."

"If they get to thoroughly understand it, they will never change it. They will force both major political parties to stop the drift toward socialism in America."

This country will retain such freedom and economic power that it will definitely win the cold war, and roll back the tide of communism and oppression," the president of the University of Pennsylvania said.

He said it was not surprising that the American workman is misinformed about the operation of his own economic system.

"He has been subjected to a steady bombardment of misinformation by left wingers, by many labor leaders, and by many politicians."

He added that the task of informing American workers is "a job to be done in your town, in your plant, in your own office and among your neighbors—by you."

SHORT STORY

Bart's Decision

By Richard Hill Wilkin

BART HODGES had lived in the city for two years and he was getting tired of it. Country bred, he longed for the smell of sweet, fresh air, the sound of roosters crowing and cows lowing. He wanted to go to bed to the tune of crickets cheeping and bullfrog jug-a-rumming.

It wasn't as if the city hadn't been kind to Bart. It had. It had taken him to its bosom, and he had prospered. Nor had he been unhappy. He loved the lights, the noise, the hustle and bustle. And most of all he loved a girl.

Tonight, lying on the divan in the living room of the apartment, Bart was troubled with an annoying thought. He wondered, strangely, which he wanted most: Sabina's love or the country.

It was at this particular moment in Bart's speculation that the telephone rang. A strangely familiar feminine voice answered.

"Hello, there, Bart," the voice said. "This is Sadie Blake, fresh in from the old home town. Come down and talk to one of your forgotten friends."

Bart's pulse leaped. Sadie! His boyhood pal! Sadie, whom one day he expected to marry! Sadie, in the city. Here! Now! Fresh from Centerville, with news and notes of the old home town galore.

At that moment Sabina Goodnow was forgotten. There was just one girl in the world for Bart. And that girl was Sadie Blake. He felt suddenly ashamed he had neglected to write, to remember her at Christmas.

"Sadie, pink cheeked, blooming with good health and freshness, met him in the lobby of her hotel. "Hello, pal," she cried. "Looking just the same. Thinner, maybe. But otherwise old Bart himself."

"Sadie!" Bart stared in open admiration. "Sadie! How good it is to see you. Tell me, how are things in Centerville? How are the folks? Tell me everything."

"Same old town, Bart. Your folks are fine. Your dad owns a new tractor. Polly, the horse, died you know. But I suppose they wrote you that. The voters decided to run town water up to William's Hill at the last town meeting. Not so much danger if fire breaks out now. Ed Salmon ran off with Bob Evans' wife. She came back two weeks ago, and Bob took her in. Shame. Poor kid..."

THEY TALKED for hours. By 1 evening Bart was fully apprised of all the events and happenings in Centerville during the past two years, and assured that his folks were well.

Her name was Sabina Goodnow, and she adored him.

He took Sadie out to dinner, and delighted in showing her around. She seemed a little awed by it all, and more awed by Bart's indifference to the many wonders.

"You get used to it after a while," he said indifferently, and stood gazing thoughtfully at the many lights along Broadway. He felt enlightened and no longer homesick. Strangely enough the noise and bustle associated themselves in his mind with Sabina. He was glad to be a part of it all.

He gazed furtively at the comely Sadie and pictured her in the rural setting of Centerville.

They attended a theater and dined afterward at an exclusive night club. Sadie would have liked to go back to the hotel, but she wanted to please Bart.

"Bart," she said, when at last they stood outside the door to her room. "When are you coming home? When are you going to give up all this and come back where you belong?"

Bart looked down into her eyes and saw something that two years ago he had longed to witness. He sighed deeply.

"Sadie, it's been just great seeing you. Just what I needed. A sort of tonic." He smiled at her gently. "I'm not going back just yet, Sadie. There's something keeping me here, something that before I never knew existed. I know now that it's something greater than anything. Some time I'm coming back, and when I do there'll be two of us."

"Silk Roads"
One of the great silk roads led from China to the Mediterranean ports. Another of the silk roads led from east central China across Burma into India. It was over these routes that the products of China were first introduced to Europe.

Macadamized Roads
John L. MacAdam, the distinguished Englishman, in the 18th Century utilized scientific principles in the repair and construction of roads. MacAdam emphasized surfacing and drainage. Macadamized roads are named for him.

Tuberculosis in Japan
The tuberculosis death rate in Japan has been among the highest in the world for the past 30 years, but health programs inaugurated by the supreme command of the allied powers are reducing this excessive death rate.

Public Transit
It would take 37 highways stretching from New York to San Francisco to equal the 112,700 miles of route over which public transit systems operate streetcars, trackless trolleys and buses.

Wet Soles
Leather soles are water-resistant. Should a rainstorm give you a drenching, dry your shoes at room temperature—never near a radiator or fire!

Two Antioch Boys Receive Awards at State Conv.

Benno Freund and Gordon Wells received state recognition and awards at the state F. F. A. convention held at Urbana, Ill.

Benno Freund received the State Farmer Degree. This degree in the F. F. A. organization is awarded to only 2% of the state membership. It is awarded on the ability of the boy to farm as proved by his farming program, which is necessary to belong to the organization.

His farming status is measured by the amount of money he has earned from his farming program and invested in farming or put in the bank. The minimum amount to earn and receive the degree is $250.00.

His leadership qualities are measured by the judging teams of which he has been a member, the high school sports in which he has participated, the offices he has held in school and other organizations, and the committees on which he has served.

He is required to be in the upper 40% of his class and he must be able to work with others which is measured by his cooperative activities.

A gold key and a certificate of recognition from the Illinois Foundation F. F. A. goes with the degree and is awarded at the state convention when the winners are announced.

Besides the State Farmer Degree Benno received a plaque with his name and the name of the production award inscribed on it for being the sectional winner of the 8th Dairy Production Award.

Gordon Wells also received a similar plaque for being the sectional winner of the corn production award. These plaques with one for the agriculture classroom at the high school were awarded at the state convention.

Farm Loan Association Gets Special Dividend From Federal Land Bank

The National Farm Loan association of Woodstock has just received a dividend check of $11,300.

This, according to Ralph L. Ostrander, secretary-treasurer of the association, represents a regular dividend of five percent and a special 10 percent dividend of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis.

These dividends are possible because of the earnings of the Federal Land Bank. Since the latter is a cooperative institution the earnings are passed on to the member associations. The territory served by the St. Louis bank are the states of Illinois, Missouri, and Arkansas and all of the stock of the Land bank is owned by the associations in the territory.

Mr. Ostrander said that he thought most of this $11,300 would be put into reserves of the local association and that some of it would be used for running expenses. The balance will be distributed as a dividend to the members of the association. This amount will be determined by the board of directors and will be announced in July. It is hoped that the dividend checks can be mailed to the 221 stock members of the association before the end of July.

The local association serves farmers in Lake and McHenry counties. The board of directors is composed of Paul Allanson, Mundelein, Pres.; John Paulsen, Woodstock, Vice pres.; N. S. Weingart, McHenry; Wm. Meyer, Marengo; and Louis Borchart, Huntley.

DDT-Dusted Orchards

Farmers who dust their orchards with DDT, to kill insects, are advised to keep dogs away from these premises. Veterinarians report that dogs running loose in DDT-dusted orchards may develop difficulty in breathing, watery eyes, and swelling in the head and neck.

FACT and SCRIPTURE

A Good Pilot
"Captain, I suppose you know every sand-bank in this river," said a passenger on a Mississippi steamboat in the old days. "No, I don't," the gruff old man who had learned many things from Old Man River replied. "It would be a waste of time." "What! A waste of time?" exclaimed the passenger; "if you don't know where the sand banks are, how can you pilot the boat?" "Yes, it is a waste of time," the captain repeated. "Why should I go knocking about among the sand banks? I know where the deep waters are; that is enough for me."

The Christian Herald
"Thy way is in the sea, and thy path in the great waters, and thy footsteps are not known. Thou leddest thy people like a flock by the hand of Moses and Aaron."
Psa. 77:19, 20

Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

John 14:6

said he picked up the knife and began slashing her. They struggled for the weapon, he asserted, and he stabbed her again, and that she ran screaming from the house.

Neighbors Called In
Otto Menalasio, 24, Chicago, who has a summer cottage across the street from the Lippert home, said that he and another neighbor, Louis Mazzarella were driving by when Lippert beckoned to them. They found the woman on the lawn. Menalasio tried to revive her but in vain. The Antioch Rescue squad was called, but she was dead when they arrived.

Lippert, a 6-foot 2 inch man, surrendered without resistance and readily told Assist. States Attorneys Harry Breger and Wilbur B. Brazell of the slaying.

They said that after being indicted, Lippert will be sent to the asylum, but for the present he will be held without bond in jail. Preliminary hearing will be on July 12 in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray J. Reardon.

Lippert was committed to the Elgin State hospital Jan. 23, after he fled from the Lake County General hospital and was captured by four deputies through a struggle at the home of a relative at Crooked Lake.

Had Hallucinations of Illness
At that time Lippert falsely believed he had cancer and fled from three general hospitals against medical advice in a five-day period. He had been employed for the Snow Ice Co., in Chicago.

The inquest was held Wednesday afternoon at the Strang funeral home. Death was due to punctures of the lung and trachea it was revealed.

Mrs. Lippert had been employed for several years at Maud's Beauty shop. She told acquaintances that she was afraid of Lippert and that he had threatened to kill her. A relative was said to have secured his release from the hospital over the Fourth.

She was born Sept. 16, 1899 at Wausau, Wisconsin. For the past 15 years made her home in Lake Villa, previous to that she lived in Chicago and Northern Wisconsin.

Survivors include her husband, Arthur, three brothers, Russell Jefferson, Lake Villa, Dan of Conover, Wisconsin and Marvin, Sr., Lyons; a sister, Mrs. Alyce Weber, Chicago and a nephew, Marvin Jefferson whom she raised from infancy.

The Lipperts were united in marriage Sept. 23, 1933. Funeral services will be held Saturday, July 8, at 2 o'clock p. m. at the Strang Funeral home. Interment will be in Warren Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Funeral Home after 7 o'clock tonight (Thur.)

Uncle Sam Says

July 4, 1950, will be a day long to remember. It's the day we celebrate Independence and it will also be the day when the Treasury Department turns over to your State an exact reproduction of the historic Liberty Bell, the bell which signaled political freedom for our new republic. And your Government offers you the way to individual independence—or freedom from financial worry—through the U. S. Savings Bonds program. The real way to celebrate future security is by enrolling for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or if self-employed, the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank. U. S. Treasury Department

Unique Hospital

The only medical hospital without a bed in the nation is the national hospital for speech disorders in New York City, New York. Founded by Dr. James S. Greene in 1917, it treats more than 4,000 patients a year for every type of speech disorder, including stuttering, cleft palate, hare lip, etc.

"Trick" Hospital Bed

A new hospital bed that can be operated by the patient without the aid of a nurse, may prove a boon to nurses and patients alike. The inventors claim that the electrically and hydraulically controlled bed is foolproof—the patient cannot end up in an awkward position.

Helps Concentration

In a schoolroom, a too-intriguing color scheme will invite the attention to wander. To help focus attention, the wall against which the instructor usually stands may be painted in a warm, eye-drawing color, such as buff; and the other three walls in a cool, receding color with less visual interest.

Doctor

Asks Aid of Patients

FORSYTH—Dr. R. H. Bramlett, Sr., country physician, who has spent his professional life taking care of his friends and neighbors in and around his small Georgia community asked for help recently.

The doctor ran a notice in the weekly Forsyth County News:

"I am now up against a serious problem. Have been in the hospital for three weeks and must undergo a serious operation, from which I may not survive. I am now asking your aid, like you asked mine thousands of times.

"Do you remember how good you felt when maybe snow covered the ground or in all other kinds of bad weather, when you heard my voice say, 'I will come'?

"Now, my friends, I am asking you to come and pay me the small fees charged you for my services.

"You might do better to settle with me than with my administrator. Please don't disappoint me, my friends, for I love every one of you."

King Writes Songs
For Michael Todd's
Broadway Musical

NEW YORK—A king has written a song for a Broadway musical.

For some years now the kings of the world have been having a difficult time and many have moved into occupations far from kingly. This king, however, has a throne and from all indications is in no danger of losing it.

He is Phumiphon Aduldet, 22-year-old King of Thailand, who is American born and interested in musical composition.

He will be represented on Broadway in Michael Todd's forthcoming review entitled "Todd's Peep Show."

The youthful March's song "Blue Night" will be featured in the show, along with five other songs he composed. Royalties from his songs will go to the royal Thailand charities.

Todd learned while in Europe last year that the king wrote popular songs. But he soon found out that getting the monarch to agree to have his songs in a Broadway show was a different matter.

Just how Todd bridged the gap between Broadway and Thailand has not been disclosed, but evidently negotiations were carried out between the producer and Prince Chakraband, the king's chamberlain, who is also his business manager.

"Blue Night" is described by a song writing expert as a "sensual beguine" and the other songs were said to be character pieces or ballads.

The music was written by the king and he was assisted with the lyrics by Prince Chakraband. The songs are in both English and Siamese.

In persuading the king to allow the use of his songs, Todd is reported to have reminded the monarch that President Truman played the piano and that his daughter Margaret appeared on the concert stage.

Man Throws Himself Under
Car to Save Wife's Life

SEVIERVILLE, N. C.—A 75-year-old man used his body as a brake beneath the wheels of his automobile to save his wife from a plunge over a mountain cliff and certain death.

Mrs. Alonzo A. Fassett said she and her husband had stopped their automobile at an observation point in the Great Smoky mountains near the Tennessee-North Carolina line.

While her husband stood outside the automobile watching the sunrise the car began to roll toward a plunging mountain slope.

She had not gotten out of the automobile with her husband, she said, because "I couldn't stand to look off from the dizzy height."

She screamed when the car first began to move, but her husband did not hear her. Then, when the vehicle was almost upon him at the edge of the cliff, he noticed the movement and tried to stop the car by shoving on it with his hands.

When that failed to check its progress, he threw himself prone. One of the car wheels crossed his body and the machine stopped as the front wheels struck him.
